

Cybersecurity: The 5 Things Leaders Need to Know

An Online Dialogue Presented by The Vanguard Network on January 20, 2022.

NEW YORK (PRWEB) January 15, 2022 -- Every business relies on technology. That means every company is now vulnerable to cyberattacks. Most who get attacked wish dearly they had thought it through in advance.

On January 20, 2022, <http://www.thevanguardnetwork.com> will present an in-depth online dialogue with a panel of cybersecurity and AI experts to discuss what senior executives really need to know. The event will also include a hypothetical crisis simulation.

The cybersecurity dialogue will be led by Luke Dembosky and Avi Gesser of Debevoise and Plimpton LLC.

As always, the conversation will be interactive, high-level, and off the record. It is aimed at C-Suite leaders, who can ask questions, discuss, and share successes – and cautionary tales.

The dialogue is one of an array of membership benefits of the Vanguard Network, which organizes events, publishes content and connects C-suite leaders.

Senior leaders may request an invitation to the Forum at <https://www.thevanguardnetwork.com/012022>.

The Vanguard Network is led by Ken Banta, a top management advisor who works with CEOs and senior executives on leadership, organizational transformation and corporate positioning.
